

T VOLSTEACH

2015 STEM Lecture Series

Advice from the Field: Teaching Effectively in Schools Serving Economically Distressed Communities

March 23, and April 6 and April 20 2015

Lecture Series presented at the University of Tennessee
821 Volunteer Blvd
Greve Hall Room 122

March 23, 2015
5:00 – 6:00 PM

Lecture: "STEM Seeds for Rural Success"

Sally Pardue - Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering at Tennessee Technological University (TTU) and Director of the TTU Oakley STEM Center
Gale Stanley- President of the Tennessee Science Teachers Association, grant writer and manager for the Campbell County School System Math Science Partnership Grant

April 6, 2015
5:00 – 6:00 PM

Lecture: "Leveraging Communities in STEM Teaching and Learning"

Lynn Hodge – Associate Professor for Mathematics Education at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville
Ashley Walther- Secondary numeracy coach with Knox County Schools, Ph.D. candidate at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville

April 20, 2015
5:00 – 6:00 PM

Lecture: "Collaborative and Project-Based Learning at a STEM Academy"

Vicki Metzgar- Director of the Middle Tennessee STEM Innovation Hub and former Director of Sky Teach at Western Kentucky University

Visitor parking is located at the Volunteer Hall Parking Garage.

<http://www.utk.edu/maps/?search=yes&find=Greve+Hall&search=Search#>

This seminar series is funded by a grant from the National Science Foundation, the NOYCE Scholarship grant, and the National Institute for Mathematical and Biological Synthesis, this lecture and workshop series serves to support the VolsTeach program at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville.