The College of Education, Health, Human Sciences’ (CEHHS) Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) was established July 1, 2020. The university required each college and campus unit to create a Diversity Action Plan (DAP). Dean Ellen McIntyre created a task force and charged the director of DEI and task force with creating a DAP to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion in CEHHS.

The five (5) university-wide Diversity Action Plan goals are:

Executive Summary

The executive summary highlights key accomplishments during the 2021-2022 academic year focused on meeting the goals and priorities in the CEHHS Diversity Action Plan. CEHHS DEI sponsored 15 open events with 741 participants (117 in-person participants, 624 virtual participants). The DEI events averaged 49 participants per open event.

During the 2021-2022 Academic Year, CEHHS DEI focused on four themes: 1) engagement; 2) sense of community; 3) faculty and student recruitment and retention; and 4) campus partnerships.

A detailed list of CEHHS DEI accomplishments during the past academic year follows the executive summary.

Engagement Opportunities

CEHHS DEI continued to provide engagement and educational opportunities for the college and broader campus community. Throughout the year, we updated and created more Curated Resource Guides, (Re)Learning Moments, and other resource guides. Additionally, our office began purchasing physical resources to be checked out. In partnership with the visiting AIDS Memorial Quilt panels, our office led a tour of all panels across campus, available to all members of our community.

In addition to continuing many of our current offerings including Exploring Inequities in panels for Hispanic Latin(x/e) Heritage Month and Black History Month, CEHHS DEI hosted its inaugural CEHHS DEI Summit: Accessing the (In)Accessible. The summit included the following events throughout the week of April 3-8, 2022:

- Affirming Gender Diversity on Campus (Jennifer Jabson Tree, MPH, PhD)
- Retention and Recruitment of Underrepresented Graduate Students of Color (Dorian L. McCoy, PhD)
- Cognizance of Bias: Exploring Ways to Acknowledge and Address Biases as Inclusive Leaders (Ciara Gazaway, MS)
- Dialogues with the Dean and Dorian (Ellen McIntyre, EdD and Dorian L. McCoy, PhD)
- Graduate Students of Color Networking Social (Lyndsey Hornbuckle-Lampkin, PhD)

The week concluded with the keynote address Rocky Top Representation: How Might the University of Tennessee Create More Equitable Access? presented by Sonja Ardoin, PhD (Appalachian State University).

The CEHHS DEI Office facilitated the second Equity, Inclusion and Justice (EIJ) Institute. Thirteen (13) CEHHS staff, faculty, and administrators participated in the EIJ. Additionally, one (1) College of Social Work colleague participated in the EIJ to “teach the teacher” and expand the Institute to their campus unit.
Sense of Community

The CEHHS DEI focused on creating a sense of community during the 2021-2022 academic year. Central to this initiative was the creation of the CEHHS DEI Office (329 Bailey Education Complex). The DEI Office hosted a “Grand Opening” November 12, 2021.

A Staff Town Hall was held August 13, 2021. Many staff had expressed concerns about being “silenced and marginalized.” The dean and DEI director met with 44 staff in a hybrid format (in-person and Zoom) to listen to staff concerns.

In collaboration with the CEHHS building manager and CEHHS colleagues in Health, Physical, Education, and Recreation (HPER) Building; the DEI Office identified a single-stall restroom to designate as “gender neutral.”

Recruitment and Retention

The office assisted in the recruitment of faculty, staff, and students throughout the academic year. The DEI director, DEI faculty fellow, or a DEI advisory board member met with all administrative (exempt staff) and faculty hires. The college hired 13 faculty from underrepresented populations who will begin employment in August 2022. CEHHS also hired one (1) department head from an underrepresented population.

Under the direction of the director and faculty fellow, the office initiated a Faculty Mentoring Program for underrepresented faculty. Underrepresented identities included People of Color, women, LGBTQ+, and differently abled faculty. Although the program began with considerable engagement and excitement, as the year progressed, it became evident the program was not meeting faculty needs.

Campus Partnerships

The CEHHS DEI Office continued to establish partnerships and build relationships with campus units. Several DEI initiatives were co-sponsored by DEI and campus units. We partnered with the CEHHS FUTURE Program and hosted a FUTURE Intern both fall 2021 and spring 2022 semesters. The Bailey Graduate School of Education and Division of Student Success co-sponsored the DEI Summit Keynote Address. CEHHS DEI partnered with the Institutional Review Board to develop a resource guide DEI in Social Science Research. CEHHS, Bailey Graduate School of Education, CEHHS DEI, and several other campus units co-sponsored a speaker in the Department of Religious Studies for a Black History Month distinguished lecture.

Recognition

The CEHHS Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion was recognized at the Chancellor’s Honors Banquet with the Dr. Marva Rudolph Diversity and Inclusion Unit Excellence Award. This award recognizes an office, program, or department that has demonstrated outstanding leadership and made consistent contributions to advancing diversity and inclusion at UT. The office, program, or department that received this award implemented diversity and inclusion initiatives that are linked to their mission and are sustainable.

Note: This is the second year in its two-year existence the Office or a team member has been recognized with a Chancellor’s Award.
